The success of your quest for low cost business class flights depends on various factors:

- How soon you book: For international flights, booking three to six months in advance can get you great deals, giving you up to 40–50 percent discounts. The window changes to one to two months in the case of domestic flights.
- Seasonal and festive offers: Black Friday flight deals and other seasonal and festive discounts also make business class flights affordable.
- The day of the week: Booking a flight for weekends will be pricier than flying on Tuesdays and Wednesdays.
- Shoulder season: The off-peak season, also known as shoulder season, takes a big chunk off the original price.
- Destination/Airport: Landing at an airport near your original destination can also drop the prices magnificently.
- Last minute flight deals: Last minute deals on flights can also be a big money saver for you. It's a gamble, though, but definitely worth a try.

- Loyalty points/Miles: Every airline offers loyalty points and miles in its customer experience program. You can get excellent deals and upgrades by using them.
